

Graduate Program in Life Sciences and Culture

This program aims to graduate professional experts who can support the country's intellectual infrastructure in multiple ways by acquiring a broad knowledge of life cultures and engaging in research work and educational or social activities. Not only the people who aspire to be professional researchers but also those who have studied history and culture as undergraduate students and have become motivated to deepen their understanding of life cultures are encouraged to apply for admission.